100 years on... the indispensable guide to the artform

Celebrating its centenary

First published in 1912 as the magazine of the Poetry Society, Poetry Review is one of the world's longest established, widely read and most respected contemporary poetry periodicals.

Unique content

Offering over one hundred pages of poetry, original essays, reviews and comment, and including contributions from Nobel prize-winners to previously unpublished newcomers, Poetry Review is regarded as the indispensable guide to the artform.

Promote yourself worldwide

With approximately 15,000 readers worldwide, and subscribers including schools, colleges and universities, writing groups and libraries, as well as individual academics and literature enthusiasts, Poetry Review reaches a larger audience than any other UK poetry periodical.
